

About Us

Industrias Manrique was born in the sixties with the firm intention of collaborating in the mechanization of the field in Spain.

Initially dedicated to the manufacture of axles, wheels and bodywork accessories, with the passage of time and every day, in a more demanding and competitive market, they have worked to incorporate new products that complement their range with the same guarantees and quality as those of our own manufacture.

Currently they are introduced both in the agricultural, industrial and public works sectors, sending their products, in addition to all of Spain, to different countries around them.

Its objective is to provide the best service and quality to its customers with personalized attention, appropriate to the current situation.
