

About Us

The San Juan Bautista cooperative was established in 1955 as the main commercial tool for the production of numerous farmers in the face of the various wineries that existed in the area.

Over the years, the cooperative grew and today encompasses the vast majority of wine growers in the area. Currently, our members, in addition to delivering their harvests to the cooperative, have in it an ally to carry out administrative procedures, restructuring projects, technical assistance for the vineyards or even financial management.

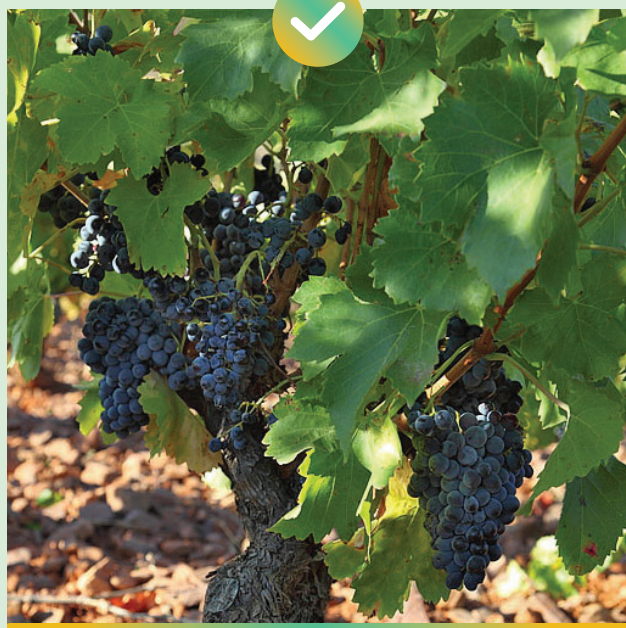

Our Technological implementation, increasingly present in all processes, allows us to adapt our needs to the reality of today's business and production ecosystem, from the aspects of production in the vineyard, to those of production technology, passing through the control of management, and the coordination of the R&D area that we have consolidated.
